It is fongly expected that the use of the shotgun, which it is the intention of this club to encourage and develop, will at least learn some of the hunters to point the muzzle of the piece at the object desired to be smashed, instead of at themselves; and that, although it may be a good plan when swallowing nauseous medicine to open the mouth and shut the eyes, the same rule does not apply to shooting. As size, combined with weight, is said to tend to stabiliity, it is but reasonable to suppose that the more corpulent of the members will, in proportion to their avoirdupois and waist measurement, prove to be the surest and the steadiest shots.
